The President said he had been waited upon by persons dedrous to have the order treached and yet when he explained to them the action of the Board that it only required the work done between certain hours and not supended altogether, they declared the order was quite reasonable.

No change was made in the order which remains in force.

The counsel said the proceedings against certain persistant violators of the Board ordinances had already been attended by marked saintary changes; those who before set the Board quite at defiance were now "eaving in."

Prosecutions were ordered against the following persons as persistingly neglecting to comply with the monitions from this Board:
